About Redmond

By most standards, Redmond is a very different organization. In today's business world, many companies exist around the idea that profit is the sole reason for existence, and that employees are a means to that end. By contrast, Redmond's philosophy is that profit is the means, but that the end goal is human development and life enhancement. This is evident in Redmond's business practices, its commitment to improving the community, and its promise to provide continual growth opportunities for its employees.

Why we do what we do...

At Redmond, we're passionate about wellness and believe nature has it right with products and people. Real products are rarely the idealized image of perfection that many have been led to believe. As with products, so with people. We believe people have a certain beauty born not of idealized image, but of natural uniqueness. We embrace real, and believe it to be the essence of life and the source of wellness of mind and body. This belief was the foundation upon which we've built the Redmond Trading family of brands, including Real Salt® and Redmond Clay®.

About Earthpaste

Earthpaste began because we couldn't find a natural toothpaste we loved for our families. We wanted a toothpaste that was as natural as possible, so we started with hydrated Redmond Clay and added Xylitol, essential oils, and Real Salt. And that's it. Earthpaste is amazingly natural toothpaste.

Earthpaste is Different

Earthpaste delivers all the benefits you expect from a toothpaste without any chemicals or unnatural additives. It's toothpaste unlike any other you've experienced – you'll see the difference on your brush and feel the difference in your mouth.

What's Missing?

Earthpaste's list of ingredients is unique, but the things we left out are just as important. Most brands of toothpaste contain foaming agents like SLS (sodium lauryl sulfate), and chemicals like titanium dioxide to make the paste bright white. Not Earthpaste.

It isn't just safe to swallow – each ingredient in Earthpaste has been used to support healthy systems.
